GMA look-alike tilt not meant to taunt foes, organizers say

MANILA (AP) — Proactive Movement leaders justified the latest post-inauguration of President Marcos, a series of look-alike or opposition rallies in Manila, as Monday the organizers of the event said the strategy was not aimed to taunt supporters of the 21-month rule.

Robert Realista, national spokesperson of Proactive Group, the 45-day campaign of support for President Marcos, said the organizers of the Gloria look-alike events, with the rationale for Gloria look-alikes are part of a strategy to get the issue raised in the public's mind in the presidential re-election.

On Friday, the Gloria look-alike rallies took place in Marikina, Manila, a hotbed of another opposition presidential hopeful Fernando Poe Jr.

Marikina has always been regarded as Poe's territory, having been the favorite shooting site of the movie actor for over 20 years. It was in Marikina where Poe starred in the "Gloria in Flying Colours," "Bag Lungs at my Taps," "Concealing Kiba at Diney Co," "My Love Song Dalmatian," "Whispering Mistletoe at Thawny at Mami at Aps," "Gold Daring Rayleigh" and "Falconer" were shot.

Pope Jr., on the other hand, is known to be supportive of Marcos. It was in Laguna Province Tayabas II where Marcos had his sailing at a race for Pope Jr.

In holding the initiative to launch opposition rallies, Realista said: "We want the public and all those aspiring for political office to know that the supporters of such the honest candidate in the coming presidential election can be staged as a close range without a so-called a candle burning," he said.

He added that both the administration and the opposition should under the effort to keep the election atmosphere calm and geared towards order and reconciliation, with less than three weeks to election day.

Last night, the venue for the Gloria look-alike contest was San Jose City, Luzon. That was in Marikina City. It will be at the Marikina Municipal Circle tomorrow and the grand finale is scheduled for May 6.

Al-Qaida chemical bomb plots bared

AMMAN—Al-Qaida plotted bomb and poison gas attacks against the U.S. Embassy and other targets in Jordan, suspects confessed in a videotape broadcast on Jordanian state television. A commentator said the plotters hoped to kill 60,000 people.

One of the alleged conspirators, Amal al-Jayoumi, said he was acting on the orders of Abu-Muhammad al-Zarqawi, a Jordanian wanted by the United States for allegedly organizing terrorists to fight U.S. troops in Iraq on behalf of al-Qaida. U.S. officials have offered a $10 million reward for his capture.

Al-Jayoumi, identified as the head of a Jordanian journal club, said he met al-Zarqawi in neighboring Iraq to plan the attacks.

The 10-minute video program, aired Monday, contained what were described as confessions by the suspects, who were arrested a month ago. Officials said four senior suspects believed linked to the conspiracy died in a shootout with police in Amman last week.

A commentator on the tape, who wasn't further identified, said the plotters targeted Jordan's secret service, its prime minister's office and the U.S. Embassy.

The least 80,000 people would have been killed, the commentator said. Al-Zarqawi is the "executioner" who plotted this operation.

Another Jordanian suspect, car mechanic Hussein Sharif Hussein, was shown saying al-Jayoumi asked him to buy vehicles and modify them so they could crash through gates and walls.

The bearded Hussein, looking anxious, said al-Jayoumi told him the aim was "carrying out the first suicide attack to be launched by al-Qaida using chemicals," striking a Jordan, an Hashemite royal family and launching war on the "infidels and non-believers."

A Web site known for publicizing messages from Muslim extremists on Monday carried a purported claim of responsibility from al-Zarqawi for suicide bus attacks against Gulf oil terminals Saturday that killed three Americans and disabled Iraq's biggest terminal for more than 24 hours. AP

UN agency seeks food aid for victims of train blast

BEIJING—The World Food Program (WFP) appealed urgently on Tuesday for 1,000 tons of food to feed survivors of a deadly train explosion in North Korea and supply a work-for-food program to rebuild the devastated area.

The UN food agency has had to dip into supplies intended for others in the impoverished state to help feed some of the victims of Thursday's blast that killed at least 163 people, injured 1,222 and destroyed 1,650 homes, WFP officials said.

"We intend to launch a flash appeal today for emergency food aid for North Korea, for the victims of the blast. We will ask for a total of about 1,000 tons," Tony Barber, WFP's regional director for Asia, told a news conference in Beijing.

UN Under-Secretary-General and other UN officials visited the blast site in Pyongyang and hospitals in the nearby city of Sinuiju, across the Yalu River from China, where medical care was rudimentary.

The WFP dipped into existing stocks to provide about 2.5 tons of biscuits, wheat and enriched vegetable oil—enough food for several hundred patients and their families for two days, he said. Reuters

Over 600 people isolated in Beijing over SARS

BEIJING—China has isolated more than 600 people in Beijing as it aims to avert a chain of infections that leaked from a laboratory and could spread to tens of millions across the country for the annual May Day holidays.

Four teams of World Health Organization experts were due in late this week to help the government attempt to investigate the laboratory accident, to track down people exposed, control infection in hospitals and monitor the situation in the eastern province of Anhui, where the woman died.

The WHO leaked the widening quarantine, saying it showed the government was taking the right steps to check the spread of severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome before the week-long public holidays starting on May 1, when millions will travel.

"This is still not a significant public health threat," Beijing-based WHO spokesman Bob Dietz said.

"We still feel we know the initial source of infection and we've been able to follow closely the chain of transmission."

All the cases disappeared in the most recent outbreak—two confirmed and six suspected—were traceable to the laboratory.

The woman who died was the first SARS fatality since last year's epidemic that killed nearly 800 people worldwide.

In stark contrast to last year when Beijing concealed the extent of the outbreak for weeks, the WHO had yet to receive any sign the cases were going undetected or unreported, Dietz said.

"We are not getting any other background noise," he said.

"Last year at this time, journalists were coming to us, diplomats were coming to us, business people were coming to us."

Across the country, authorities have stepped up surveillance against the disease, which is highly contagious.

The risk of a SARS crisis hitting the capital again was "very small," the head of virus control under the Beijing center for disease control, Wu Jiang, told reporters.

Thailand was screening passengers arriving by air from Beijing as a precaution, a health official said. Reuters

The 1990s have been a decade of change for the U.S. health care system. The industry has been reeling from the impact of managed care, the passage of the Health Insurance Reform Act of 1993, and the implementation of the Affordable Care Act of 2010. The industry has also been reeling from the impact of the global financial crisis, which has led to a significant reduction in health care spending. In this article, we will explore the impact of the global financial crisis on the U.S. health care system and discuss strategies for managing the crisis.

42 or 43-M voters? Poll officials can't agree

MANILA, April 23 (AP) — Philippine election officials are in a state of confusion over the number of voters in the 42nd or 43rd congressional district, a key area in the upcoming May 14 elections.

The confusion stems from a discrepancy in the number of voters listed in the precincts of the district, which is currently being contested by several candidates.

One candidate, who has been leading in the polls, claims that the number of voters in the district is 42 million. However, another candidate claims that the number is 43 million.

The discrepancy has led to a series of legal challenges and court cases, with both sides claiming that the other is misrepresenting the data.

Electoral officials are currently working to resolve the issue, but they have been unable to reach a consensus. The result could have a significant impact on the outcome of the May 14 elections.

Western Eastern Visayas Sugar bloc loses sweet touch in politics

MANILA, April 23 (AP) — The Western Eastern Visayas sugar bloc, once a powerful force in Philippine politics, has lost its sweet touch in the current political climate.

The bloc, which has been a major player in the sugar industry, has seen its influence wane in recent years. This is due to a combination of factors, including changes in government policy and the rise of new political forces.

One of the key figures of the bloc, who has been a prominent voice in the industry, has been seen as a key player in the current political landscape. However, his influence has been significantly reduced.

The bloc's loss of power has had a significant impact on the sugar industry, which has been struggling for years. The industry is now facing a new set of challenges, and it is unclear what the future holds.

Gov't sells bonds worth $400M for Napocor

By Raymond L. London

THE GOVERNMENT SOLD $400 million in bonds for the National Power Corporation (Napocor) today, marking the first time since 1981 that the government has sold bonds for a state-owned enterprise.

The bonds, which mature in 1992, were sold at a discount of 10 percent, or 90 percent of face value.

The sale was part of a larger $1 billion bond issue for the government, which also included $600 million in bonds for the National Development Bank (NDB).

The bonds were sold through a syndicate of banks led by Citicorp, which also acted as the sole bookrunner for the government's $1 billion bond issue.

The bonds were sold to a group of institutional investors, including foreign banks and insurance companies.

The sale was part of a larger effort by the government to raise funds for the development of the power sector.

the 1990s, the number of people who have been infected with HIV has increased significantly. In 1990, there were about 1 million people living with HIV in the United States. By 2000, that number had risen to about 4 million. And in 2008, it was estimated that there were about 12 million people living with HIV in the United States. This increase in the number of people living with HIV is due to a number of factors, including the fact that the virus is now more easily transmitted than it was in the 1980s. This is because of the development of more effective ways of preventing the virus from being transmitted, such as the use of condoms and the availability of antiretroviral drugs. These drugs have helped to reduce the damage that the virus does to the immune system, and they have also helped to reduce the risk of death for people who are infected with HIV. However, the fact that the virus is now more easily transmitted than it was in the 1980s is a major concern, and it is important that we continue to work on finding ways to prevent the virus from being transmitted.
